

Regenerative Work: How To Thrive In The Era of AI & Uncertainty

A keynote that inspires a new way of working—one that regenerates people, organizations, and impact

Murielle Machiels
Regenerative Work Coach • Keynote Speaker

Artificial intelligence, constant connectivity, and evolving customer & employee expectations are no longer trends — they're transforming the way we work and lead.

If you still want performance and agility—without losing yourself or your people—it's time for a new way of working. One that regenerates people, teams, and organizations—and can be sustained over time.

- Understand why the current way of working isn't delivering
- Discover the invisible forces draining impact, energy, focus, and engagement
- Learn concrete regenerative practices that boost performance, engagement and resilience
- Shift from urgency to clarity, from reactivity to purpose

About Regenerative Work

Regenerative work is a new way of working that restores energy, clarity, and purpose instead of draining people. It's about creating lasting performance by shifting how we lead, focus, and respond under pressure.

These six core habits form the foundation of a more sustainable and human approach to work:

Every Change Starts With Awareness

“To create a movement, you need a leader and a follower.”

Give your people the chance to start the shift. This keynote is ideal for:

- CEOs, Executives & Leadership Teams
- HR & People Leaders
- Company Offsites, Annual Kick-Offs & Leadership Retreats
- Workers operating in fast-changing environments, rational minds and for people looking to be inspired
- Events, associations and business clubs

What Participants Will Take Away

- The 6 Regenerative Habits that reduce overload, increase resilience, and unlock leadership capacity — even in high-pressure environments
- A science-based understanding of how stress affects attention, clarity, and decision-making — and how to shift toward meaningful impact
- A transition from reactive “busy-ness” to intentional, aligned action, with tools to focus energy where it matters most
- A new appreciation of emotional intelligence as a performance skill, especially for rational or technical minds
- A personal regenerative leadership score and practical tools to begin applying the insights right away
- Most importantly: support to close the knowing–doing gap — helping leaders and employees apply what they know even when it’s hard
